

AGREE TO DRASTIC REVISION IN SHIP SUBSIDY MEASURE

Amendments Limit Extension
Of Government
Financial Aid.

SUGGESTIONS COME FROM FARM BLOC

Changes Are Accepted By Administration And Chairman Lasker.

Washington, Feb. 17.—A drastic revision of the subsidy provision in the Harding-Lasker ship subsidy bill was agreed upon today by administration leaders as they resumed their final drive to enact the measure before the death of the 67th congress.

Two amendments limiting the extension of government financial aid to American shipping under terms of the bill were prepared today by Senator Jones, Republican of Washington, chairman of the senate commerce committee, for submission to the senate. Their acceptance was expected to allay opposition to the bill within the Republican ranks.

The amendments are:
1.—Elimination of all passenger liners from the subsidy benefits by reducing the speed limit of beneficiary vessels from 23 to 19 knots an hour, and
2.—Prohibition of financial aid to all privately owned shipping until 1,500,000 gross tons of government-owned ships are sold.

Suggested by Farm Bloc
The first amendment, in slashing the speed limit of beneficiary ships, would not only eliminate the fast exclusive passenger ships from government aid but would also reduce the number of cargo-passenger ships which would benefit. The subsidy, in effect would apply only to those vessels solely engaged in cargo shipping or that carry cargo as a bulk of their business.

The second amendment would act as a stimulant to the sale of $6,000,000 gross tons of shipping board vessels, most of which are tied up at docks along the nation's coast line. It would prohibit the extension of any aid to private shipping until half of "serviceable" government ships are sold.

Both amendment had been suggested by Republican members of the senate "farm bloc." Their acceptance by the administration was taken to indicate the senators would throw their support to the bill. Both provisions were agreed to by Chairman A. D. Lasker, of the U. S. Shipping board.

COX HELD UNDER BOND OF $45,000

Two Others Held To Grand Jury In Kidnaping
And Robbery Case.

Alliance, Feb. 17.—James B. Cox, charged with the crimes of assault with intent to kill, kidnaping and robbery, was bound over under $15,000 to the Stark county grand jury by Municipal Judge Moore Friday. He was held for grand jury action at the request of his counsel.

The reading of three affidavits charging Cox with abducting F. A. Holmes, manufacturer and publisher, and robbing him of $6,000 at the point of a gun was waived by Atty. Gen. who entered a formal plea of not guilty for the accused bus head. Later Wade Russell and Elmer Johnson were taken before Judge Moore for arraignment.

Russell, who is charged with assault with intent to kill, robbery and kidnaping, was held to the grand jury under $1,000 bond on each charge and under $5,000 bond as a material witness in the case against Cox.

He pleaded not guilty to each affidavit making him an accomplice of Cox in the attack on the publisher last June 30. Johnson, engineer at the Helvetia mine near Paris, this county, pleaded not guilty aiding and abetting the kidnaping plot.

Johnson had his bond fixed at $1,000. He is held as a witness and bond for his appearance against Cox was fixed at $5,000.

The French positions at Essen have strengthened owing to the increased German hostility following the court martial proceedings yesterday when Lord Mayor Hagenschein of Oberhausen was sentenced to three years and Acting Mayor Schaefer of Essen, sentenced to two years.

Occupy Another Town
Essen, Feb. 17.—French troops today occupied Gelsenkirchen in reprisal for the refusal of the municipality to pay the 100,000 marks fine imposed early in the week.

Gelsenkirchen is three miles north-east of Essen and contains the most important of Hugo Stinnes steel and iron works. It has been surrounded by French troops ever since the Ruhr was occupied and patrols passed through it at intervals.

The town was fined following the shooting of two French soldiers, after a German policeman had been wounded.

"France has decided to reject any intervention in the Ruhr. The only solution acceptable to France is an unqualified capitulation by Germany."

Officers Chosen.

Two members were suspended and orders were issued by Fred H. Brigrman of Pittsburgh, assistant general dictator of Moose lodges of this district, to suspend any other members of Salem lodge No. 571, L. O. O. M. guilty of bootlegging or gambling.

This demand was made by Dictator Brigrman when he appeared before members of the local lodge, speaking in behalf of its morals in an effort to clean up the lodge following recent raids, reflecting against the character of the organization.

"This lodge is to be cleaned up and kept clean," Mr. Brigrman stated. "It is going to be conducted as a ladies' and gentlemen's club, absolutely free from liquor and gambling. The ladies are to have access to any and all parts of the building and they are to feel free to drop into the club rooms at any time for social gatherings. There is no restriction against games such as bridge, '500,' etc. but gambling will not be tolerated."

ANONYMOUS WET TIPS ARE IGNORED

County Officials Annoyed
By Letters; Want Affidavits First.

County officials are being annoyed by writers of anonymous letters who make statements regarding places where liquor is said to be sold and asked that raiding parties be sent out. Several such letters have been received during the last week.

They have been addressed to different officials who have turned them over to Sheriff Lewis.

"They are absolutely useless," said Deputy Sheriff Frank Baucum this morning. "We cannot proceed against these people until we have authority on an affidavit. We are ready to go any place at any time to make a raid."

"All we ask is the authority of an affidavit and this is just what the dry raiders have in every case. They cannot proceed without, neither can we."

"Bring in your affidavit and we will gladly get busy. Don't write an anonymous letter."

BRITAIN WILL PAY HER WAR DEBT IN AMERICAN DOLLARS

Senate Ratifies Debt Bill,
20 Nations Still Owe
United States.

London, Feb. 17.—Great Britain's payment of the war debt owed to the United States will be made in American dollars through credits already established in New York, the treasury department announced today.

Payments will be made through J. P. Morgan and company.

Washington, Feb. 17.—France stood today at the head of the list of 20 nations that owe the United States sums varying from $30,000,000 to $7,600,000,000.

Ratification of the Anglo-American debt agreement, under which Great Britain undertakes to discharge her obligations to this government within 62 years, leaves France the greatest single debtor. Her bill is $3,544,132,250 and in the order of payment established by the American debt funding commission it will be taken up within a short time.

As soon as the Anglo-American agreement emerges from the conference of senate and house members to which it was sent today for minor adjustments of differences, it will be signed by President Harding.

This final act of ratification will be speedily followed, officials said, by formal notice to the French government that the time has now arrived when demand notes bearing 5 per cent interest, now held by this government shall be turned into a more tangible form of secured paper.

Miss Ora Vincent who took the part of "Woman of the Church," had the leading part. The part of "Prayer" was taken by Miss Caroline Hilde and Miss Kump Allen was "Others." Others who had part in it were:

Mrs. Leo Vincent, Mrs. Thomas Jenkins, Mrs. Alfred Jones, Lee Vincent, Mrs. William King, Miss Tamar Thum, Mrs. J. B. PART OF DENVER MINT LOOT FOUND BY CLEVER RUSE

Stolen Securities Recovered
By U. S. Inspectors At Cincinnati.

DISCLOSURES MAY LEAD TO ARRESTS

Expect To Recover Million Dollars More By Following Clues.

Cincinnati, Feb. 17.—Through a clever ruse employed by post-office inspectors, private detectives and Cincinnati police officers, it became known today that federal authorities have recovered $80,000 of the $200,000 loot secured in the holdup of the Denver mint some months ago.

The money fell unexpectedly into hands of government inspectors as they were engaged in tracing more than $1,000,000 of stolen securities. Incidentally it is announced that $80,000 worth of securities, part of more than a quarter million dollar of loot secured in the holdup of the Hamilton county bank here last fall, was also recovered.

As a result of the disclosures made by the federal inspectors, they expect to round up the ringleaders of the bandits' clearing house. The headquarters of the stolen bond syndicate is in Minneapolis, and its operations extend to all parts of the United States and Canada.

Clever Ruse Used.
It is expected that by following the clues obtained in the negotiations with the leaders of the syndicate at least $1,000,000 additional in stolen bonds and securities in which the alleged ring trafficked may be recovered.

The uncovering of the operation of the syndicate followed the employment of a clever ruse. This took the form of a "South Dakota" banker, in need of stolen securities, which he could purchase at a large discount to cover up a "shortage" at his bank.

Through his negotiations with the representatives of the syndicate, the authorities had little difficulty in getting their hands on part of the bonds and currency stolen in Cincinnati and Denver.

Federal officials expect to recover the additional $120,000 of the loot obtained from the Denver mint.

AUTO HITS TRUCK, DRIVER INURED

C. E. Hendricks Is Thrown
From Auto In Crash
Near Hospital.

C. E. Hendricks, 121 Park st., was painfully injured shortly before 8 p. m. Friday, when the machine he was driving collided with a heavy motor truck, near the City hospital on McKinley ave.

Details of the accident are meager but it was learned that the Hendricks machine had just turned onto a side street onto McKinley ave when the crash occurred.

Two trucks, left standing along McKinley ave while their drivers were holding a conversation, are said to have blocked the view of Hendricks as he drove out of the side street.

The Hendricks machine crashed into one of the trucks, the impact throwing Hendricks and another passenger clear of their car.

Hendricks sustained painful bruises to his shoulders and ribs but the other passenger escaped injury. The machine was badly damaged, the body being torn from the chassis.

Hendricks was assisted to his home nearby and medical attention given. His injuries are considered painful but not serious.

Community Houses

THROUGHOUT the length and breadth of the United States in the last two decades, community houses have been springing up in the country districts in great number. This has not been purely a matter of chance, but because there has been growing a demand that the country life be made less lonely and that there be spread therein more of the mutually helpful thought of neighborliness. These community houses draw the people of sparsely settled localities to meet together for their welfare, both as groups and as individuals, and serve as a measure to mitigate against the allurements of the larger community and to provide much in the way of social diversions that a city might offer.

According to a census of the Department of Agriculture, there are more than 500 of the community houses in various sections of the country, more than 200 being located in places of between 2,000 and 3,000 inhabitants, and 83 being actually situated in the open country. These latter are in practically every case under the complete control of the people of the farming communities, and include in their membership virtually every family resident in the neighborhood.

Twenty to twenty-five years ago there was for the farmers almost no community life in the larger areas outside the villages, and therein it was to a great extent extremely circumscribed. Then, with the extension of means of communication, there arose, of course, an increased opportunity for diversion, but this did not by any means necessarily make for an enlargement of the social sense. This latter really came about as a product of the former, and the community house became its outward expression. There are no standards to which these community dwellings must conform. They are constructed to meet the expanding needs of the countryside, and as such each one necessarily has its individuality. They are one of the outgrowths of a twentieth-century outlook.

A Mule Heaven
"If there is a mule heaven"—quoth former Gov. Patterson of Tennessee. Of course, there is a mule heaven. Of all the animals in this world, the mule is the most useful, most patient, most philosophical and the truest democrat. Having neither pride of ancestry nor hope of posterity, without popularity or association in equine society circles, loaded with crushing responsibility for which earth offers no reward, this noble beast survives for others on short rations, performs his duty nobly and with patience and self sacrifice faces the trials and tribulations of a lost and ruin world. In the sweet fields of Eden on the other side of Jordan there surely must be red clover landscapes of fadeless verdure that stretch to the very horizons of eternity, golden cornfields that never have to be plowed and singing streams above whose crystal waters neverwithering branches wave their leafy banners, a land where galling trace-chains never clank, where merciless singletrees never creak, where cruel bits twist nevermore nor cruppers rub nor horseflies sting their wincing victims, a land of tranquil meadows where no spectre of toil and abuse can ever enter, where no memory of earthly slavery shall startle the dreams and no brutal driver's profanity the melodious bray of these noble democrats in the quadruple kingdom of life; and there may they browse and bray and wallow and kick in the undisturbed ecstasy of perfect peace, while the years of eternity roll on.

20 YEARS AGO

The blizzard continues to hold this city in its icy grip. At midnight Thursday thermometers registered six degrees below zero with a stiff wind raging.
While at work on the new addition of the Dening company plant, William H. Entriken, Lisbon rd., well known carpenter, suffered a stroke of palsy and died shortly afterward. Salem is to have a free public library building, the gift of Andrew Carnegie, the man who has given millions of dollars for public libraries.

J. W. Dickerson who came to this city last summer and since Sept. 1, conducted a shoe repair shop at No. 137 East Main st., has decided to return to Sherman, Texas, his old home.

Mine Hawkins, 13, of Church Hill, who was accidentally shot by her eight-year-old brother, Sunday, died in Riverside hospital, Lisbon, Tuesday.

In the styles—Brocades today are really lovely. They are mostly copied from old French patterns. Satins are much used for evening gowns. Tulle and fringes as trimmings cannot be surpassed.

John Shaffer, who lives a short distance east of North Benton, is said to be the oldest man in Smith township. He is 97 years old and he built the house he lives in. It was the first brick house built in Smith township.

A cheese factory probably will be started at Winona in connection with the Winona creamery.

Rev. George Malinsberry, pastor of the East Goshen Friends church, has resigned his position after 20 years service and intends to retire from the active ministry.

LIQUOR VERDICT REVERSED, SEEKS TO RECOVER FINE

Suit has been filed in common pleas court by H. W. Patterson, administrator of the estate of C. V. Karsh of East Liverpool to recover $500 from the trustees of Liverpool township, this amount representing the township's share of the $1,000 fine paid by Karsh previous to his death following his conviction before a justice of the peace on a charge of violating the prohibition laws.

The conviction was appealed to two higher courts, and both reversed the finding of the lower court. In filing the suit, Patterson claims he has notified the township trustees of the reversal of the lower court and demanded that the $500 be returned, but that the trustees have refused to make restitution.

Under the Crabbe act, Ohio's prohibition enforcement law, half of the amount received in fines goes to the state and the other half to the township or municipality in which the conviction is obtained.

Karsh was arrested in May, 1921, on a charge of violating the prohibition laws and following a trial before Justice of the Peace D. M. McLane he was found guilty and fined $1,000 and costs. He paid the fine, but appealed the case to the common pleas court and the conviction was reversed.

The case was then carried to the appellate court and the finding of the common pleas court was affirmed. McLane died Karsh died and Patterson was appointed administrator.

Action to recover the other half of the fine, which the state received, also is expected to be taken later.

Lifts Mired Motortrucks.
For lifting motortrucks out of mud, sand or snow, in which they may be stranded, a portable attachment, shown in Popular Mechanics Magazine, for connection to a mired wheel, is in the form of a wooden four-sided block, in length about half the width of the truck. About the middle of this block is an eyebolt through which a chain having a hook at one end is passed. The chain is long enough to encircle the rim of the wheel, against which it is made tight by slipping the hook into the link of the chain. A tubular extension at the end of the block is so made that, when two blocks are placed on opposite wheels, they will telescope together. The truck is lifted by the blocks when the wheels are rotated.

Keep Your Watch Clean

A watch in a dust-tight case needs cleaning chiefly because the oil dries up and becomes fine, gritty dust. That can't be helped. The thing to do is to have Leland clean your watch every 12 months. If you wait longer, you are apt to cause wear on the delicate parts. That will be expensive for you. Step in today and have your watch examined. All work is guaranteed for a year and prices are fair and reasonable.

RUFUS' NEW ROAD

By ADDIE GRAVES

(By McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Martha Jane had a mighty good dinner on the table. Rufus liked "biled pickled knuckles," and the season's first green peas were temptingly placed just in front of his plate beside a dish of baby beets.

Just then, Rufus arrived, wet with sweat and streaked with dust from cultivating the beans.

"I'm goin' to the sewin' circle this afternoon, Rufus. There's a special meetin' about takin' some city children to board. They are galy goin' to keep them two weeks."

Rufus snorted: "A couple of ruffians, you mean—into mischief like puppies, all the time?"

"I'd look after them, Rufus. I don't want people to think we are too mean to do what some of the others will do who are not so able."

"Well, they ain't coming, anyway—and that's all there is to it. So shut up. I'm going down to Dave Kidder's to plow with the tractor this afternoon. You better stay home and take care of the turkeys. There's likely to be a shower."

Martha Jane's shoulders straightened a little from their discouraged stoop. It was better to stay home than to tell them she could take no charity children.

Rufus drove the tractor as fast as it could go, as though to crush any thoughts of remorse for his stinginess. The old bridge over the mill stream was not equal to the sudden strain. The left side crashed under the weight; the tractor made a nose dive and then careened, pinning Rufus under the front wheels. It was fortunate that Doctor Smith was directly behind him. By digging the stones and dirt from under his leg, the doctor soon extricated Rufus.

"Take me home as quick as you can, doctor," groaned Rufus. "Oh, my leg! Oh, my leg!"

"The best place for you is the city hospital, I don't know yet what you may have broken."

The doctor broke the speed laws in reaching the hospital. By that time Rufus was too worn with pain to care where he was. When he came out of the ether, the nurse told him he could probably go home in two or three weeks.

"Meanwhile you will have sympathetic company on either side. To the right is little Johnnie Johnson; to the left, Billie Burke. Both have broken legs, and both are fatherless. Perhaps they will make the time pass more quickly."

Rufus was surely off his road. It was astounding how easily he learned to travel the new one. He had never taken any notice of the flowers that bloomed by the old one. The peonies that grew in the front yard, the big crimson roses that grandmother planted, the spring by the gate. But when Martha brought the pansies, he remembered. Yes, those were blossoming under the maple when he proposed to her. What a fine looking girl Martha was then!

Suddenly it all came to him:

How many flowers had he planted in Martha's road since he had married her? Why did she bring him flowers?

But he was quite mistaken in thinking Martha had brought the flowers expecting he would care for them. She had imagined the boys might like them. For Rufus, she brought as many eggs and berries and as much cream and jelly as he had consumed when working on the farm.

"The boys will have to help eat them and he won't mistrust," she planned. But Martha was the one who didn't mistrust when Rufus demanded two big roasted chickens a week. Still less would she have imagined he ate less than he wanted, that the two boys might have all they could dispose of.

Rufus had discovered he had never been a boy. When seven years old, he had been forced to rise, on the coldest winter mornings, at four o'clock; milk four cows, feed as many calves, make a fire and boil swill for four hogs, and feed and water the hens as soon as light. Then he had to walk three miles to school.

He would take time now to be something of a boy. And Martha should be a girl, if rest and money could make one. Shoulders can straighten and cheeks fill out under proper treatment. "Wouldn't it be funny," chuckled Rufus, "to see Martha weigh 200?"

Next day Rufus was taken home to complete his recovery. On the seat with the driver were the two boys. When Martha opened the door, she sensed the passing of the clouds from her life. Rufus had a glorious smile on his face.

"I've brought the boys to stay a couple of weeks—but don't you think seeing as we never had none, we might keep them all the time? They have opened up a new road to me, one you will travel, too. Johnnie's mother can't live long, and Billie's mother says she would be glad to help you with the work. I'm going to buy a car, and we're going fishing, picnicking, nutting, and do everything else there is to do."

Every summer for five years thereafter he and Martha brought home two more orphans. And by that time, Martha weighed 210 pounds—"of happiness," she said.

The Beginner.
"A beginner at bridge is trying."
"You don't know what trouble is."
"Hey!"
"Take one with you at golf."

SALEM SCOUT ACTIVITIES

BOY SCOUTS
Scout Commissioner Lee R. Chamberlain, all scout masters and scouts of all troops join in expressing their appreciation to Salem merchants for the use of their display windows to exhibit Scout work on Demonstration day during the anniversary week. Without the use of these windows the scouts would have been handicapped in exhibiting to the public the practical accomplishments of Scouting.

And this appreciation extends to all others who contributed so largely to the success of the anniversary program, including the Rotary club, civic improvement committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Baptist church, schools, and many other organizations and individuals. The scouts are very grateful to all.

Troop Four
During the recent anniversary week of the Boy Scouts of America, Troop 4, Harry Izenour scoutmaster, rounded up ten additional scouts. Based on the previous membership of 12, this is an increase of 77 per cent. Troop 4 claims this as a record.

The staff of leaders of Troop 4 has been materially increased by the addition of Mr. Reeves, instructor in mathematics in the Salem High school. Besides general scouting, Assistant Scoutmaster Reeves will develop nature study in the troop.

At the weekly meeting of Troop 4 Thursday evening, Lee Christen, Harold Lepper, Raymond Lepper, and Howard Jones, successfully passed the Tenderfoot tests. Scouts Carl Martin and Henry Jensen also passed additional Second Class tests.

Troop 4 will meet next week on

TREMAINE KAYOES CURTAIN IN SIXTH

New York, Feb. 17.—An unsatisfactory ending to one of the most spectacular heavyweight bouts seen here since the revival of boxing, gave Carl Tremaine of Cleveland a knockout victory over Irish Johnny Curtin, popular little Jersey City fighter, in the sixth round of a scheduled 12-round battle at Madison Square Garden last night.

After two minutes thirty seconds of the sixth round, Curtin sank to the floor of the ring, his face wreathed in pain, claiming a foul. Tremaine had driven home a long, sweeping left hook aimed for the body. With the punch Curtin gasped and sank to the floor. He regained his feet, and, throwing his arms about the neck of Tremaine, Patsy Haley, clung to the ring official to save himself from falling. The crowd that paid $41,295 in net receipts to see the battle was in an uproar.

Opinion among the critics at the ringside was undecided as to the legality of the blow. The opinion of the crowd likewise, was divided. Some at the ringside declared the blow was foul, others said it was fair. Referee Haley was undecided.

He assisted Curtin to his corner and called for Dr. J. T. Walker, official state athletic commission physician. Dr. Walker evidently found no indications of a foul on his superficial examination and so instructed Haley. Then Haley caused it to be announced that he was compelled, under the circumstances, to award the contest to Tremaine.

Jess Willard Says He's Better Fitted To Meet Jack Now

New York, Feb. 17.—By his own personal and exclusive admission, weighing 259 pounds in his elastic garters, Jess Willard today proclaimed his belief that he is in better condition at this non-essential moment than he was when the bell rang for the first round at Toledo. "I weighed 259 pounds when I stepped on the scales at Madison Square Garden two days ago," declared the ex-champion, who will have New York Sunday on a buck hunting tour of the country. "If I had to jump in the ring with Jack Dempsey tomorrow, I would be better off morally and physically, to fight him for the heavyweight title than I was in the Toledo fight. Make no mistake, if I get another fight with him, you will see a different Willard in action."

Troop 1 took in ten new recruits Tuesday night. This makes a full troop.

GIRL SCOUTS

Red Cross national headquarters have worked out with the National Girl Scout headquarters a course of instruction in "Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick" for Girl Scouts. This course is being carried on now at the Community house under the capable direction of Miss Hazel Linn local Red Cross nurse. At the present time they are studying child nursing and will later take up the other courses. Thirty-five scouts are enrolled.

Troop 4 captained by Miss Margaret White met at the Community House Monday evening. Plans were made to hold a Valentine party at the house Monday night.

TWO FLOOR TEAMS MEET WELLSVILLE

The Salem High boys basketball team is in better condition for the clash tonight with Wellsville High at Wellsville than at any time this season, according to team officials. Cancellation of the game with East Palestine last week gave the Salem team a chance to recover and also served to give the team plenty of practice this week.

The close score of the game between the teams here, when Salem won by a score of 35-34, indicates that the battle on the Wellsville floor tonight will be anything but a pink tea affair. The Wellsville passers have been traveling at a fast pace in recent encounters and their victory over East Liverpool put them in a class where they can be expected to give remaining opponents plenty of opposition.

Couch Vivian expects to see Sholan and Sertick at forwards. Houser at center and Lockmaster and Voller at guards. In addition to those last O'Neil and Yengling will be ready to step into the fray.

The girls' team is also in good shape for their battle with the Wellsville lassies and they expect to make it two in a row over their south county opponents.

Means To Stop Flow Of Drugs Discussed By House Committee

Washington, Feb. 17.—Use of narcotic drugs in the United States is growing at an "amazing" rate, William J. Sink, exalted ruler of the Chicago lodge of Elks declared at hearings before the house foreign affairs committee.

Urging favorable consideration of a resolution requesting President Harding to negotiate with other nations for a decrease in production of opium, Sink said the "devastating effects of the evil" would multiply as long as the raw material from which the drugs are made continued to be a commodity of international commerce.

Dr. Amos O. Squire, chief physician at Sing Sing prison, New York said the proportion of drug addicts among the prisoners received at that institution had increased greatly since 1919.

Many of the crimes of which these prisoners were convicted, he said, resulted directly from the use of drugs of which heroin is the most disastrous in its effect. He urged prohibition of the manufacture of heroin.

News In Brief

Marfetta—Not content with the present temperature residents of this city have dug up the information that the thermometers registered 24 below zero, 20 years ago at this time.

Mt. Vernon—The water supply of the whole city was cut off here recently when the intake pipe of the water power plant became clogged with small fish from the Miami river.

Akron — The city is finding it a difficult task to find experienced engineers. It is feared that extensive sewer and paving projects planned for the summer months will have to be delayed due to the shortage.

Solve Jewel Theft Mystery, Man Jailed

New York, Feb. 17.—The Schoellkopf jewel robbery mystery is solved. Inspector John Coughlin stated today. Other arrests are expected to follow the capture last night in Albany of Matthew Biddulph, alleged to be the "master mind" who engineered the theft of $300,000 in jewels from Mrs. C. P. Hugo Schoellkopf of Buffalo at a New Years party here.

Rev. Linton To Preach

Due to the illness of Rev. H. L. Peoples and the absence of Rev. H. L. Haldy, who is holding services at Mottown this week, Rev. John Pennington of Damascus will fill the pulpit at the Friends church at Damascus Sunday morning while Rev. Lawrence Linton will preach there in the evening.

Rev. Linton will also preach at the Methodist church Sunday morning, and at Bunker Hill church later during Rev. Peoples' absence.

Telephones in Finland.

Finland is a country about which we in the United States hear little, but it is nevertheless on the map telephonically speaking. Although accurate statistics are difficult to get, the latest reports indicate that there are in Finland about 45,000 telephones and a considerable number of interurban toll lines, all operated by private companies. In view of the fact that the population of the country is only 3,500,000, this represents a creditable telephone development, one which in fact exceeds that of France, Italy, or Belgium.
